Thank you for getting the Client Acquisition Blueprint, an updated, refined version that combines everything from the first edition with new strategies.

I don't take it lightly that you chose this. My promise to you is simple: I'll keep updating this book as I discover what works, and you'll always get the newer versions for free.

The first version was 70 pages; this is 140 pages. meaning If you pirate this book or pass it around for free, the person you give it to will miss out on all the good stuff, version updates, invites to trainings, access to my email list, events, and access to my community. In short, they'll be stuck with an outdated PDF while you move ahead. Don't do them that disservice.

One of my big goals is to gather serious African freelancers into a community where Western brands and agencies come to hire directly. By owning this book, you've already secured a spot in that plan.

This book has already helped a lot of people land clients. Each "Paschal, I got a client!" email sends a dopamine shiver down my spine and pushes me to improve it even more.

If this book helps you too, shoot me a mail at [hello@tenfiguresacademy.com] with the subject line: "Paschal, I got a client," then tell me your story. How you started, where you were at, and the results you got. I am compiling beautiful stories for later use. I have over a 100 so far. I'd love to hear your story. And here's something you should know: people who reach out via email will get on my private WhatsApp number and get exclusive coaching from me. I will help you build a scaling structure and craft stronger offers you can use to raise prices, including how you can package your wins into case studies. That extra push makes a big difference. Final thing: don't just read but implement. Less than 3 out of 100 people implement it. The ones who act on this material are the ones who change their lives.

Oh, and if you want to affiliate and sell this book, drop me an email with the subject line "Make me an affiliate." With your email address, I'll respond and make you an affiliate. Now go win!.

Chapter 1:

If Your Offer Is Weak, Nothing Else Works

Let me be straight with you.

You can have the best skills in the world.

You can be the most talented designer, copywriter, video editor, or developer in Africa.

But if you don't know how to package what you do into an offer that makes people want to pay you, you will stay broke.

I've seen it happen over and over.

Guys with 5 years of experience struggling to find clients.

Meanwhile, someone who just started 6 months ago is making ₦500k/month.

What's the difference?

The offer.

But paschal, what's even an "Offer"?

Most people think an offer is just saying what you do.

"I'm a video editor."

"I'm a copywriter."

"I design graphics."

That's not an offer. That's just a job title.

Here's what an offer actually is:

An offer is the complete package you're putting in front of someone that makes them want to pay you.

It's made up of 3 parts:

- 1. What You're Selling — The actual service or result
- 2. How You're Positioning It — Why they should care
- 3. The Deal Structure — What it costs, how it works, what they get

Let me show you what I mean.

Bad Offer vs. Good Offer

Bad Offer:

"I'm a video editor. I edit videos. ₦10k per video."

What's wrong with this?

- You didn't say WHY they need you
- You didn't explain what RESULT they'll get
- You didn't give them a reason to choose YOU over the 500 other video editors applying for the same role.

This offer will get ignored 99% of the time.

Good Offer:

"I edit long-form YouTube videos that keep viewers watching till the end. My last client went from 30% retention to 68% in 2 weeks. I'll edit your next video for free so you can see the difference."

What just happened?

You told them:

- What you do: Edit YouTube videos
- What result they get: Higher retention (more watch time = more money)
- Why they should trust you: You have proof (30% → 68%)
- What's the deal: Free first video (Risk aversion, they don't have to commit any money)

See the difference?

That's an offer.

The Power of a Strong Offer

Here's the truth:

The quality of your offer determines how much money you make.

Not your skill level.

Not how many years of experience you have.

Your offer.

Two people can have the same skill level.

But the one with the better offer will make 10x more money.

Why?

Because people don't buy skills.

They buy Great offers,

They buy solutions to their problems.

So when you say "I'm a copywriter," they don't care.

But when you say "I write emails that turn your subscribers into paying customers — my last client made $2M in 30 days," now you have their attention.

Before we continue, there's something I want you to always have at the back of your mind

W.I.I.F.M. — The Unspoken Question in Every Client's Head

Whenever you reach out to someone, there's only one question running through their mind:

"What's In It For Me?"

That's it.

They don't care about you.

They don't care that you're "passionate" about design.

They don't care that you're "looking for opportunities."

They care about themselves and their problems.

So if your message is all about YOU and what YOU need, they'll delete it.

But if your message is about THEM and what THEY'LL GET, they'll reply and that is the foundation of every great offer.

"WHAT IS IN IT FOR ME?" If your DMs, email, or outreach message doesn't answer this core question, you're still playing. And if you check the constituents of a great offer, you'll quickly notice that it answers this question; never forget this for any reason.

Whenever you get confused, just think about "W.I.I.F.M."

Common Mistakes Freelancers Make

I get DMs every single day from freelancers trying to work with me.

Most of them go straight to my spam folder.

Why?

Because they all make the same mistakes:

Mistake #1: Talking About Themselves

"Hi, I'm John. I'm a video editor with 3 years of experience. I'm looking for clients..."

Brother, I don't care.

You just told me what YOU need.

You didn't tell me what I'LL GET.

Mistake #2: No Clear Result

"I can help with your content."

Help with what exactly?

More views? More engagement? Better editing?

Be specific.

Vague offers get vague responses (or none at all).

Mistake #3: No Proof

"I'm really good at what I do."

Says who?

Where's the proof?

Clients don't believe words. They believe results.

Show them a case study. A before/after. A testimonial.

If you don't have testimonials, then show work sample

If possible, a sample tailored to them alone.

Something that proves you can actually deliver.

If you are sending a sample to a fitness coach as a copywriter, give them a work sample selling their coaching services.

Don't send a sample you made for a relationship advice coach,

The same applies to whatever you do,

Are you an editor? Make a custom edit for them.

Understanding Your Market (Before You Even Make an Offer)

Before you start reaching out to clients, you need to answer some important questions. This is also important for people deciding on a skill to learn,

Perhaps your friend or someone online has recommended virtual assistance, data entry, copywriting, Clipping, AI automation, or whatever as the next skill to learn.

But you're not so sure on what to go for, these next set of questions will give you the clarity you need to make a decision.

If you skip this part, you'll waste months (or years) chasing the wrong people.

Here are the questions:

Question 1: Is the market in pain?

Are the people you want to serve actively looking for a solution?

Or do you have to convince them they even have a problem?

Example:

Fitness coaches who are running ads but getting no sales? They're in pain. They need a copywriters help to reduce ad spend and get more leads faster.

Random people on Instagram who might want a logo someday? No pain. They're not actively looking.

Rule: The more pain, the easier the sale.

Question 2: Are they easy to find?

Can you actually reach these people?

Are they on Instagram? LinkedIn? TikTok?

Or are they hiding somewhere you can't access?

Example:

E-commerce store owners on Instagram? Easy to find, because you can find them interacting on niche pages talking about e-commerce, you can find them on meme pages interacting with ecom memes.

CEOs of Fortune 500 companies? Hard to reach in most cases (unless you have connections).

Rule: If you can't find them, you can't pitch them.

Question 3: Is the demand growing or dying?

Is this skill still in demand?

Are people talking about it?

Are businesses hiring for it?

Example:

Video editing for YouTube and TikTok? Growing demand.

Data entry (copying info from one spreadsheet to another)? Dead. (Zapier automation handles it in seconds.)

Rule: Don't spend time learning a skill that's being replaced by AI or going extinct.

Question 4: Will AI replace you or help you?

This is the most important question in 2026.

Some skills are being replaced by AI.

Others are being enhanced by AI.

Example:

Basic graphic design (logos, flyers)? AI is killing it.

Strategic brand identity and custom illustrations? Still valuable.

Video editing with AI tools (to edit faster and better)? AI is helping.

Copywriting with AI tools (To write faster and better). AI is helping.

Rule: If AI can do your job for free, you're in trouble. But if AI makes you faster and better, you win.

Specificity: The Secret to Standing Out

Here's a saying that changed my life:

"When you try to speak to everyone, you end up speaking to no one."

The more specific your offer, the more money you make.

Here's why:

Generic Offer: "I'm a copywriter. I write copy for businesses."

Who do you help? What kind of businesses? What results do you get?

Nobody knows. So nobody hires you.

Specific Offer: "I write email funnels for fitness coaches that turn subscribers and followers into paying clients. My last client made $15k in 3 weeks."

Now it's clear:

- WHO you help (fitness coaches)
- WHAT you do (email funnels)
- WHAT result they get ($15k in 3 weeks)

Specific offers convert better.

How to Craft Your Offer (Step-by-Step)

Alright, let's build your offer right now.

Follow these steps: write these down on paper or a notepad now, as you read this.

Step 1: Who Do You Want to Serve?

Be specific.

Not "small businesses."

But "e-commerce store owners selling skincare products."

Or "YouTube creators with 10k-50k subscribers."

Write it down: I want to serve _____

Step 2: What Problem Are They Facing?

What's keeping them up at night?

What's costing them money?

What's frustrating them?

Examples:

- Fitness coaches: "I'm spending $1,000 on ads each month but not getting sales."
- YouTubers: "My videos get views, but no one subscribes."
- Course creators: "I have 5,000 email subscribers, but they're not buying."

Write it down: The main problem they have is _____

Step 3: What Result Can You Guarantee?

What will change after they work with you?

Be specific.

Examples:

- "Your email open rates will go from 15% to 40%."

- "Your YouTube retention will increase from 30% to 60%."
- "Your landing page will convert 3x more visitors into buyers."

Write it down: The result I can guarantee is _____

Step 4: Condense It Into One Punchy Sentence

Now take everything you just wrote and turn it into one sentence that makes people stop and say "Wait, how?"

Examples:

For Copywriters: "I write email funnels that turn your subscribers into paying customers — my last client made ₦2M in 30 days."

For Video Editors: "I edit YouTube videos that keep viewers hooked till the end — helped a creator go from 30% to 68% retention in 2 weeks."

For Designers: "I design Instagram carousels that get 3x more engagement — last client went from 200 likes & 8 comments to an average of 1500 likes and 40 comments per post."

Your turn. Write yours:

Use AI to Help You (If You're Stuck)

If you're struggling to come up with your offer, let AI help.

Open ChatGPT and say:

"I'm a [your skill]. I want to help [your target audience] solve [specific problem]. Can you help me craft a one-sentence offer that's clear, specific, and results-focused? Ask me questions if you need more details."

Let AI ask you questions.

Answer them honestly.

Then refine the offer it gives you until it sounds like YOU.

Action Steps (Do This Before Moving to the Next Chapter)

Don't just read this and move on.

Actually do the work.

Here's what I need you to do right now:

1. Answer the 4 market questions (Is there pain? Can I find them? Is demand growing? Will AI replace or help me?)
2. Define your target audience (Be specific — who exactly do you want to serve?)
3. Identify their main problem (What's costing them money or causing frustration?)
4. Craft your one-sentence offer (Make it clear, specific, and results-driven)
5. Test it with AI (Use ChatGPT to refine it if needed)

Once you have your offer written down, you're ready for the next chapter.

But if you skip this step, nothing else in this book will work.

Your offer is the foundation.

Get it right, and everything else becomes easier.

Next up: Chapter 2 Profile Engineering (Making Your Page Sell You Before You Even Send a DM)

Chapter 2:

Your Profile Is Your First Pitch (Make It Sell You Before You Even DM)

I have gotten more clients from Instagram DMs than from any other social media. When I say clients i mean clients that paid me $4,000 for a month-long project.

For some of my students, it was through LinkedIn, Twitter, and Facebook.

And from every assessment I have done, I can tell you this for free,

Your profile is doing the pitching before you even open your mouth.

And for most reasons, most freelancers don't understand this.

When it comes to working with foreign clients, or even any client at all,

What determines the kind of people drawn to you is how you present yourself.

If you present yourself like some regular poor, cheap dude from Africa, then that's all you'll ever be.

But if you package yourself the way you want to be addressed, you won't have a lot of issues interacting with these people.

I mean, clients with six-figure networks.

When you send a cold DM to a potential client, the first thing they do is tap on your profile.

They're not spending more than 3 seconds on your DMs.

They're checking you first.

And in those 3–5 seconds, they're deciding:

"Is this person legit?"

"Do they look like they know what they're doing?"

"Can I trust them with my money?"

If your profile doesn't pass that test, your DM doesn't matter.

They'll ignore you and move on.

So in this chapter, I'm going to show you exactly how to engineer your profile so that when clients land on it, they think:

"Okay, this person is serious. Let me hear what they have to say."

Let's go.

Why Your Profile Matters More Than Your Pitch

Cold dm means sending a message to someone who doesn't follow or know you. Here's what happens when you send a cold DM:

Step 1: You send the message

Step 2: Instagram moves it to their request folder (not their main inbox)

Step 3: They see a notification: "Message request from [your name]"

Step 4: They scan your message, then tap on your profile

Step 5: They scan your bio, profile pic, and top 3–6 posts in 3 seconds

Step 6: They decide: "Reply or ignore?"

Most people get ignored at Step 5.

Not because their message was bad.

But because their profile looked unprofessional, desperate, or confusing.

Your profile is your first funnel.

It either sells you or repels them.

The Psychology Behind It

Clients — especially international ones — don't know you.

They can't see you. They can't meet you in person.

All they have is your online presence.

And whether you like it or not, perception is reality online.

When they land on your profile, here's what's running through their mind:

- "Does this person look trustworthy?"
- "Do they look confident in what they do?"
- "Do they look desperate for money?"
- "Do they look like a scammer?" (Yes, this is a real fear for Nigerian freelancers)

If your bio is vague, your profile picture is blurry, and your posts are all over the place, they'll assume you're not serious.

And they'll bounce.

But if your profile is clean, like a normal human being with a life, professional, intentional, they'll think:

"Okay, this person knows what they're doing. Let me see what they want."

That's when they open your DM.

The Hard Truth About Perception (Especially for Nigerians)

Let me be real with you.

If you're African — and especially if you're Nigerian — you're fighting an uphill battle.

There's a stigma.

The "scammer" stereotype.

The "low-quality freelancer" bias.

I'm not here to sugarcoat it. I've lived it.

But here's the good news:

Perception is the lever that can change everything.

You can't control the stereotype.

But you can control how you show up online.

And when you show up the right way, you override the bias.

The Golden Rule: Look Valuable, Not Desperate

Here's the harsh reality:

People are more willing to give money to someone who doesn't look like they need it.

I know. It's unfair. But it's true.

If you look like you're trying to get clients, people run.

But if you look like you're booked and only accept aligned projects, people chase.

Let me give you an example from my own life:

I drive a small Lexus. It's decent, nothing crazy.

One day, I wanted to shift perception with my clients and prospects.

At the time, I was trying to work with a client who owns an actual Bentley, travelled over 40 countries,

So I went to a Porsche dealership, test drove a car, and made some casual content while I was there.

I posted it on my story. No caption. No explanation.

I didn't say "I bought a Porsche."

I just let people assume whatever they wanted.

And guess what?

Within 2 weeks, I got 3 new client inquiries.

One of them even said: "Bro, you're doing well. I need someone like you on my team."

Did I lie? No.

Did I manipulate? No.

I just curated perception.

Same thing with travel.

When I go somewhere decent, I take clean shots. I dress well. I post intentionally.

Not for hype.

But because online, that's the only version of me that clients get to see.

You're not going to meet 99.9% of your clients in person.

So you have to show them the version of you that makes them think:

"This person is valuable."

Common Profile Mistakes (That Kill Your Chances)

Let me show you what not to do:

✗ Mistake #1: No Profile Picture (or a Blurry One)

If you don't have a clear profile picture, you look fake.

Clients will assume you're a bot or a scammer.

Fix: Use a clean, clear headshot. Smile. Look approachable. Dress well.

✗ Mistake #2: Generic Bio

"Helping people grow online"

"Passionate about design"

"Freelance writer | Open to opportunities"

These bios say nothing.

Who do you help? What result do you get them? Why should they care?

Fix: Use the offer you created in Chapter 1.

Example: "I write email funnels that turn subscribers into paying customers — $2M generated for my last client in 30 days."

✗ Mistake #3: No Proof Anywhere

No pinned posts. No highlights. No case studies.

Just random selfies and memes.

Clients need to see proof that you can deliver.

Fix: Pin 3 high-leverage posts that show results, process, or personality.

✗ Mistake #4: Looking Desperate

Posts like:

"Still looking for clients 🙏"

"Please DM if you need help"

"Affordable rates! Hit me up!"

This screams: "I'm broke and desperate."

And desperate people don't get hired.

Fix: Post like someone who's selective about who they work with.

✗ Mistake #5: Too Personal or Off-Brand

Political rants. Religious debates. Random emotional outbursts.

Unless that's your brand, it doesn't belong on your profile.

Fix: Keep your page focused on your offer and your results.

What Clients Are Actually Looking For

When a client lands on your profile, they're silently asking these questions:

- ✓ "Does this person's bio clearly say what they do?"
- ✓ "Do their posts show proof, process, or personality?"
- ✓ "Does their profile picture look professional?"
- ✓ "Do they look like they need money, or like they create value?"

If your profile answers these questions correctly, they'll reply to your DM.

If not, they'll ignore you.

How to Fix Your Profile (Step-by-Step)

Let's build your profile from scratch.

Follow these steps exactly.

Step 1: Fix Your Bio

Your bio should have 3 things:

1. What you do (in one clear sentence)
2. Who you help (be specific)
3. A call-to-action (tell them what to do next)

Bad Bio: "Freelance designer | Open to work"

Good Bio: "I design Instagram carousels that get 3x more engagement. Helped 10+ creators grow to 50k+ followers. DM 'DESIGN' to work together."

See the difference?

Step 2: Fix Your Profile Picture

Use a clean, clear headshot.

Here's what works:

- ✓ Good lighting (natural light is best)
- ✓ Smiling or looking approachable
- ✓ Dressed well (like someone a client would respect)
- ✓ Clear background (not messy or distracting)

Avoid: ✗ Sunglasses

- ✗ Group photos
- ✗ Blurry selfies
- ✗ Harsh filters

Your profile picture should make people think:

"This person looks professional."

Step 3: Audit Your Top 9 Posts

When someone visits your page, the first 6–9 posts they see are critical.

They should show at least one of the following:

- ✓ Proof: Testimonials, case studies, results, screenshots
- ✓ Process: Behind-the-scenes, how you work, your workflow
- ✓ Personality: Your story, your why, what makes you different

Avoid: ✗ Random selfies with no context

- ✗ Political or religious posts (unless it's your brand)
- ✗ Reposts with no original commentary
- ✗ Memes and jokes (unless you're a content creator)

Go through your last 9 posts right now.

If they don't fit the criteria above, archive them (Archive, don't delete)

Step 4: Pin 3 High-Leverage Posts

Most platforms (Instagram, X, LinkedIn) let you pin your top 3 posts.

Use them strategically.

Here's what to pin:

Post #1: A story that positions your offer

Post #2: A case study or client win if you have one,

Post #3: Your "why" or backstory

These posts should make people think:

"I need to see more from this person."

If you are introverted like me, simply post nice pictures of yourself, then put more energy on the highlights.

Step 5: Set Up Instagram Highlights

Treat your Instagram highlights like a mini website.

Here are some ideas:

- ✓ "Client Wins" — Testimonials, results, before/after
- ✓ "About Me" — Your story, your process, why you do this
- ✓ "Services" — What you offer, pricing (if you want), how to work with you
- ✓ "Process" — Behind-the-scenes, how you deliver

Keep them tight and organized.

Don't just dump random stories in there.

The "Cold to Warm" Strategy (Advanced)

Here's a sneaky tactic I use to make cold pitches feel warmer:

Before I DM someone, I warm them up.

Here's how:

1. Like 2–3 of their recent posts
2. Comment something specific (not just "🔥" or "Great post")
3. Repost one of their posts to my story and tag them

This creates familiarity.

So when my DM lands, they're already thinking:

"Oh, this is that guy who liked my stuff. Let me see what he wants."

It's not manipulation.

It's just smart positioning.

Final Thoughts

Don't wait until you're rich to look valuable.

Looking valuable is what brings in the money.

Your profile is your first pitch.

Make it clean. Make it professional. Make it intentional.

When you do that, even complete strangers will respect you instantly.

And when they respect you, they'll pay you.

Action Steps (Do This Before Moving to Chapter 3)

Don't skip this part.

Here's what you need to do right now:

1.  Update your bio with a clear offer + CTA
2.  Fix your profile picture (clean, clear, professional)
3.  Audit your last 9 posts — Archive the junk
4.  Pin 3 high-leverage posts that sell you
5.  Set up Instagram Highlights (Client Wins, About Me, Services, Process)

Once your profile is clean, you're ready to start sending DMs.

But if you skip this step, your DMs will keep getting ignored.

Your profile is the foundation.

Fix it, and everything else becomes easier.

Next up: Chapter 3 — Understanding Clients, Prospects, and Leads (And Where to Find Them)

Go and implement before continuing.

Chapter 3:

Know Who You're Talking To (And Where to Find Them)

Before you start sending DMs or emails, you need to understand something basic that most beginners get wrong:

Not everyone you talk to is at the same stage.

Some people are ready to pay you today.

Others need weeks of follow-up.

And some are just names on a list who don't even know you exist yet.

If you treat them all the same, you'll waste time, burn leads, and stay frustrated.

So in this chapter, I'm going to teach you:

1. The difference between a client, a prospect, and a lead
2. Where to find these people (step-by-step)
3. How to track them so you never lose money

Let's break it down.

Clients, Prospects, and Leads: What's the Difference?

These three words get thrown around a lot.

Most beginners use them interchangeably.

But they're not the same.

And if you confuse them, you won't know who to follow up with, when to pitch, or how to close.

Let me define them clearly:

✨ CLIENT

A client is someone who has paid you money.

That's it.

If no money has been exchanged — not even a deposit — they are not your client yet.

They're just a prospect or a lead.

Example:

You sent someone a proposal. They said "yes." But they haven't paid yet.

Are they a client? No.

Until money hits your account, they're still a lead.

🔍 PROSPECT

A prospect is someone who fits your ideal customer profile, but hasn't shown any interest yet.

You found them. They didn't find you.

They've never heard of you.

They are your target.

Examples: If you are a video editor,

- A fitness coach running Facebook ads
- A course creator on YouTube teaching dropshipping
- A brand selling skincare products on Instagram

Are all your prospects,

They fit the type of person you want to work with.

But they don't know you exist yet.

That's a prospect.

LEAD

A lead is a prospect who has interacted with you in any way that shows mild interest.

This could be:

- ✓ Liking your DM
- ✓ Replying with "Maybe later" or "Send samples."
- ✓ Watching your Loom video
- ✓ Viewing your message
- ✓ Asking a question about your service
- ✓ Even just reacting with an emoji

Basically, if they've acknowledged your existence, they're a lead.

Important:

Until someone blocks you or tells you "I'm not interested," they're still a lead.

Leads can stay warm for days, weeks, or even months.

Your job is to follow up consistently without being annoying. (My lead tracker will help you with this)

Some people are one message away from converting.

Others need 10 messages.

You won't know until you keep showing up.

Why This Is Important

If you don't understand the difference, you'll make mistakes like:

- ✗ Calling someone a "client" before they've paid (and getting disappointed when they ghost)
- ✗ Giving up on a lead after one message (when they might've said yes on message

#5)

✗ Not tracking your prospects properly (and losing money because you forgot to follow up)

Bottom line:

Know where people are in the pipeline.

Then treat them accordingly.

Where Do You Find These Prospects?

Now that you know what a prospect is, the next question is:

Where do you find them?

I'm going to show you proven methods that have worked for me and thousands of other freelancers.

Pick one. Master it. Then scale.

METHOD 1: Facebook Ads Library (The Underrated Goldmine)

This is one of the best ways to find qualified prospects who are actively spending money on their business.

Why?

Because anyone running ads is serious about growing.

They're already investing in marketing.

Which means they're more likely to invest in you.

Let me walk you through this step-by-step.

What Is Facebook Ads Library?

Facebook Ads Library is a free tool you can easily access now from your phone that shows you every active ad running on Facebook and Instagram.

You can search by:

- Keyword
- Country
- Industry

And you'll see exactly what ads people are running, what their landing pages look like, and who's behind the business.

This is a goldmine for finding prospects.

Step-by-Step: How to Use Facebook Ads Library

Step 1: Go to Facebook Ads Library

Open your browser and go to:

<https://www.facebook.com/ads/library>

If that link doesn't work, just Google "Facebook Ads Library" and click the first result.

Step 2: Set Your Filters

A screenshot of the Facebook Ads Library search interface. At the top, the heading "Search ads" is followed by the instruction "Set your location and choose an ad category to start your search. View search tips." Below this are two dropdown menus: "United States" with a downward arrow and "All ads" with a computer icon and a downward arrow. A search bar with a magnifying glass icon contains the placeholder text "Search by keyword or advertiser". Below the search bar is a "Saved Searches" button with a bookmark icon.

Once you're on the page, you'll see two dropdown menus at the top.

Here's what to do:

1. Location: Set it to United States (or any country you want to target)

2. Ad Category: Click on "All Ads"

This will show you ads from all industries.

Step 3: Search for Your Niche

In the search bar, type a keyword related to your niche.

Examples:

- "fitness coaching"
- "online course"
- "email funnel"
- "digital product"
- "dropshipping"
- "weight loss"
- "social media marketing"

Facebook will show you a bunch of active ads in that niche.

Depending on your niche and the type of skill you offer, coming up with keywords might be your biggest struggle, but you can use AI for that. Just ask for a keyword and start from there, follow the rabbit hole.

Step 4: Analyze the Ads

Now, here's where the magic happens.

Click on an ad that catches your eye.

Then ask yourself these questions:

- ✓ What is this business selling?
- ✓ Who are they targeting?
- ✓ What does their landing page look like?
- ✓ What are they doing right?
- ✓ What are they doing wrong?

Look for gaps. Look for problems.

Your job is to spot something you can fix based on your skill.

- ✗ Mobile experience is terrible

What you can offer:

"I can redesign your app/website to increase conversions by 40%."

It all depends; by all means, find a unique mechanism to sell yourself.

"Uncle Paschal has come again. Which one is a unique mechanism again?"
Chill, lemme explain,

FINDING YOUR UNIQUE MECHANISM

Find a Unique Mechanism to Sell Yourself

Here's the thing:

Everything I just listed? Those are common problems that most freelancers can spot.

But if you want to stand out and charge premium prices, you need more than just "I can fix your design" or "I can write better copy."

You need a unique mechanism.

What Is a Unique Mechanism?

A unique mechanism is your signature approach — the specific method, process, or strategy that makes your service different from everyone else doing the same thing.

It's not just what you do. It's how you do it in a way that no one else does. A principle you follow that guarantees results.

Think of it like this:

- McDonald's doesn't just sell burgers. They sell fast food delivered in under 2 minutes.
- Domino's doesn't just sell pizza. They sell "Get your order in 30 minutes or it's free". (This was a real advert they used to expand but had to cancel because people began abusing it)
- Apple doesn't just sell phones. They sell seamless ecosystem integration.

Your unique mechanism is what makes clients think:

"I can't get this anywhere else. I have to work with THIS person."

Why You Need a Unique Mechanism

Without a unique mechanism, you're just one of many.

You're competing on price, not value.

And when you compete on price, you lose.

But when you have a unique mechanism, you can say things like:

For Copywriters:

- "I use the 3-Step Conversion Framework that turned a dead email list into $2M in 30 days."

For Video Editors:

- "I edit using the Hook-Retention-CTA method that boosted my last client's watch time from 30% to 68%."

For Designers:

- "I use the Scroll-Stop System — ads designed to stop thumbs in 0.5 seconds and get 3x more clicks."

For Social Media Managers:

- "I use the Content Velocity Strategy — posting 3x/day with a proven engagement formula that grows accounts by 10k/month."

See the difference?

You're not just offering a service.

You're offering a system with proven results.

Now, don't copy this verbatim; get creative and make better versions.

How to Discover Your Unique Mechanism

Here's how to create your own:

Step 1: Look at What You Already Do

Think about your process.

What do you do that's different from other freelancers in your niche?

Examples:

- Do you use a specific tool no one else uses?
- Do you follow a unique workflow or checklist?
- Do you combine two skills in a way others don't?
- Do you focus on a specific metric (retention, conversions, engagement)?

Write it down.

Step 2: Name It

Give your process a catchy name.

It doesn't have to be fancy. Just clear and memorable.

Examples:

- "The 3-Hook Video Formula"
- "The Conversion Clarity Method"
- "The 5-Day Content Sprint"
- "The Authority Positioning System"

Why does this work?

Because when something has a name, it feels proprietary.

It feels like yours.

Step 3: Tie It to a Result

Your unique mechanism should always lead to a specific outcome.

Bad Example: "I use the 3-Hook Video Formula."

Okay... so what?

Good Example: "I use the 3-Hook Video Formula that keeps viewers watching till the end — my last client went from 30% to 68% retention."

Now it's real. Now it's valuable.

Finally, you can still tie it to the specific outcome the prospect desires, which could be more booked calls, more link clicks etc.

"I use the 3-Hook Video Formula that keeps viewers watching till the end — my last client went from 30% to 68% retention in 2 weeks which also doubled his booked appointments."

Step 4: Test It in Your Pitches

Use your unique mechanism in your:

- Bio: "I use the [Your Method] to help [target audience] get [result]."
- DMs: "I noticed your videos are losing viewers at the 2-minute mark. I use the 3-Hook Formula to fix that — want me to show you?"
- Loom videos: "Here's how the [Your Method] would work for your funnel..."

If clients start asking "How does that work?" — you've got a winner.

Examples of Unique Mechanisms in Action

Let me show you how different freelancers can apply this:

For Copywriters:

Generic Offer: "I write sales emails."

With Unique Mechanism: "I use the 7-Email Conversion Sequence that turns cold subscribers into buyers in 7 days — generated $2M for my last client."

For Video Editors:

Generic Offer: "I edit YouTube videos."

With Unique Mechanism: "I use the Hook-Retention-CTA System that keeps viewers watching till the end — helped a creator go from 5k to 50k subs in 3 months."

For Graphic Designers:

Generic Offer: "I design Instagram posts."

With Unique Mechanism: "I use the Scroll-Stop Framework — carousel designs that get 3x more engagement and 5x more saves."

For Social Media Managers:

Generic Offer: "I manage Instagram accounts."

With Unique Mechanism: "I use the 3-Pillar Content Strategy that grows accounts by 10k followers/month organically — no paid ads."

For Web Developers:

Generic Offer: "I build websites."

With Unique Mechanism: "I use the Speed-First Design Method — websites that load in under 2 seconds and convert 40% more visitors."

For Virtual Assistants:

Generic Offer: "I manage your inbox and calendar."

With Unique Mechanism: "I use the Priority Matrix System that frees up 15 hours/week for CEOs — so you can focus on scaling, not admin tasks."

How to Apply This When Analyzing Ads

When you're going through Facebook Ads Library or TikTok, don't just look for generic problems.

Ask yourself:

"What can I do that no one else can?"

"What's my unique approach to solving this?"

"How can I position this in a way that makes me the ONLY choice?"

Then use that in your pitch.

You don't need to be the best freelancer in the world.

You just need to be the only one doing it your way.

Find your unique mechanism.

Name it.

Tie it to results.

And use it in every pitch.

That's how you stop competing on price and start charging what you're worth.

Action Step:

Right now, answer these questions:

1. What do I do differently from other freelancers in my niche?
2. What's my process or workflow?
3. What specific result can I tie to that process?
4. What should I name it?

Write it down.

Test it in your next 10 pitches.

If clients ever start asking "How does that work?" — you've found your unique mechanism.

Before i continue, now is the right time to ask you to go drop me a review (Only if you found value)

One thing you can do now is to send me an email at hello@tenfiguresacademy.com
Subject: Review

Body: Tell me what you have learnt so far and how this book has opened your eyes and what you were doing differently,

Or tell me something bad you noticed you'd like to see fixed in the next book version.

I would appreciate that.

Or if you're not ready yet, You'll have an opportunity to send the review later.

Let's move on.

How to Find the Right Person to Contact

Here's the thing:

You don't want to message the brand account. Because most times, its a social media manager behind the screen, or some intern.

You want to message the decision-maker.

The person who can say "yes" to hiring you.

Here's how to find them:

E.g 1

Step 1: Copy the Brand Name

From the ad, copy the business name or brand name.

Step 2: Go to LinkedIn

Open LinkedIn and search for the brand.

What you're looking for:

- ✓ CEO
- ✓ Founder
- ✓ CMO (Chief Marketing Officer)
- ✓ Marketing Manager

These are the people who can hire you or recommend you.

Write down their full names.

Step 3: Find Their Email Using Hunter.io

Now that you have names, it's time to find their email addresses.

Go to: <https://hunter.io>

Hunter.io is a tool that finds email addresses associated with a website.

How it works:

1. Input their website URL (e.g., companysite.com)
2. Hunter will generate email addresses associated with the brand
3. Match the names from LinkedIn with the emails from Hunter.io

Example:

If the CEO's name is Mark, check the emails from Hunter.io to see if any of them have "mark" in it.

That's your target.

Important Note:

Hunter.io now only accepts professional email addresses like:

yourname@yourwebsite.com

It no longer accepts Gmail addresses.

This means you'll need a custom email to use Hunter.io.

How to Get a Custom Email (If You Don't Have One)

Don't worry. This is easier than it sounds.

Here's what you need:

1. A domain name (e.g., yourname.com)
2. Hosting (where your website lives)

You can get both from:

- Namecheap.com
- Hostinger.com

Cost: Around ₦5,000–₦10,000 per year

Once you have a domain and hosting, you'll get access to cPanel.

cPanel lets you set up your business email for free.

Watch these tutorials:

- <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=sB5DdpbNI80>
- <https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=iIC4k0P6Wf8>

If this feels overwhelming, don't worry.

It's just because you're new to it.

Once you do it once, it becomes easy.

Alternative Tool:

If Hunter.io doesn't work for you, try:

<https://prospeo.io>

It works the same way.

You can also look up other websites with similar service.

Step 4: Repeat the Process

Do this for 10–20 businesses.

Track everything in your lead tracker.

Go the Extra Mile (Before You Reach Out)

Here's what separates the amateurs from the closers:

Most people just send a generic DM.

But I do something different.

Before I reach out, I create value first.

Here's what I mean:

Option 1: Create a Free Sample

If you're a designer, create a sample design for them.

If you're a video editor, edit one of their videos.

If you're a copywriter, rewrite their landing page headline.

Why this works:

You're showing them what you can do before they even ask.

This puts you miles ahead of everyone else in their DMs.

Option 2: Record a Loom Breakdown

Go to <https://loom.com> (it's free).

Loom Tutorial: https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=xOpMPg_4hVo

Record a 2–3 minute video where you:

1. Introduce yourself
2. Point out a problem on their website/funnel/ad
3. Suggest a fix
4. End with: "Want me to help you fix this? Let me know."

Example (for a copywriter):

"Hey [Name], I just checked out your landing page. I noticed you're losing people at the headline. Here's what I'd change... Want me to draft a new one for you?"

This is extremely powerful.

Most clients have never had someone do this for them.

Now, i have to give you a secret,

Alot of times when i make a loom for someone, i don't ask them to work with me, i usually come in as a big fan who loves what they do,

I intentionally say things that will let them believe that i think they already have someone,

When i clearly know they don't. Its to boost their ego as a big person.

So after making the loom, i say things like,

“i already did this for clients (mention one or two if you have even if they dont know the person), I think you know what you’re doing, if you have a team already, simply ask them to fix this part, especially here (be specific) and you’ll almost instyantly (mention the result),

That’s it man, i really love your work so keep it up, we’re looking up to you.”

Unless the pain isn’t visible or you didnt do a good job at showing how you can help, this closing script will prompt nothing other than “What will it take to get this fixed” from the prospect, and from there, you’re golden.

Remember, the goal is to get a foot in the door, from there you can fix that, give results then Ascennd the client to another package.

More on that later.

Option 3: Draft a Personalized Strategy Idea

Write a short document (1 page) that outlines:

- The problem you noticed
- How to fix it
- What result they get

Then send it to them.

Remember: WIIFM (What’s In It For Me).

The only thing they care about is how you can benefit them.

If you prove you can solve an important problem, you have their attention.

METHOD 2: TikTok & YouTube SEO Search (For Content Creators)

This method is powerful if you serve:

- Content creators
- Coaches
- Course sellers
- Info-product sellers

Here's how it works:

Step-by-Step: How to Find Prospects on TikTok & YouTube

The people making these videos? They're selling photography courses, presets, or editing tutorials.

Example 14: Music Production / Beat Makers

Search for:

- "How to make beats for beginners"
- "Best DAW for music production"
- "How to mix and master a song"
- "FL Studio tutorial"

The people making these videos? They're selling beat kits, production courses, or mixing/mastering services.

Example 15: Parenting / Baby Care CoachesSearch for:

- "How to get your baby to sleep through the night"
- "Best parenting tips for toddlers"
- "How to potty train in 3 days"
- "Postpartum recovery tips"

The people making these videos? They're selling parenting courses, baby sleep programs, or coaching packages.

The Pattern You Should Notice:

No matter the niche, the formula is the same:

Search for: "How to [solve a problem]" or "Best [thing] for [goal]"

The creators making these videos are selling:

- Courses
- Coaching programs
- Done-for-you services
- Digital products
- Memberships

And they need help with:

- Better video editing
- Stronger sales copy

- More engaging graphics
- Better funnels
- More leads

That's where you come in.

Your Job:

Pick one niche from the examples above.

Go to TikTok or YouTube.

Search using the examples I gave you.

Watch 5–10 videos.

Click on their profiles.

Find their Instagram or website.

Add them to your lead tracker.

Step 2: Watch Their Videos

Click on a few videos.

Then ask yourself:

- ✓ Who are they?
- ✓ What problem are they solving?
- ✓ Who are they targeting? (Their Ideal Customer Profile)
- ✓ What's their main goal for making this content?
- ✓ What problem is stopping them from achieving that goal?

Step 3: Click Their Profile Link

Go to their Instagram.

Find their email if you can,

Save everything in your lead tracker.

Pro Tip: Batch the Process

Don't try to do everything at once.

Here's how I stay consistent:

3 hours: Only research and document prospects in my lead tracker

3 hours: Only outreach and follow-up

This rhythm keeps me from running dry on leads.

Alternative: Use ChatGPT

If you want to speed this up, ask ChatGPT:

"Give me 100 YouTube channels in the fitness niche."

Then track down the creators to Instagram and find your way to their DM and email.

BONUS STRATEGY: Get Your Instagram Verified

This one isn't required, but it helps. A lot.

If your Instagram or X (Twitter) is verified, your cold DMs are more likely to get opened.

That blue check instantly makes you look legit.

And when someone checks their request folder, you stand out at the top.

Best part, it will reduce the linkelyhood of you getting banned or restricted from IG for making mistakes such as resending the same thing top people.

How to Get Verified on Instagram:

I recommend doing this on an Android device or browser. (iPhone works too, but you'll pay more.)

Steps:

1. Go to your IG settings
2. Apply for verification
3. They might place you on a wait list (3 days to 1 month)
4. While you wait, build your lead list
5. Once verified, start outreach:
 - 3 DMs/day for the first week (for safety)
 - 10 DMs/day the next week
 - 20 DMs/day after that

Alternative:

You can buy aged IG accounts from:

<https://www.acctbazaar.com>

Use dummy accounts. Wait a week before making changes.

Then transfer leads, prospects, and clients to your WhatsApp or main IG.

Account Safety: How to Run Multiple Social media Accounts Without Getting Banned

Listen, I'm going to be straight with you.

If you're planning to run multiple social media accounts for client outreach, e.g Instagram you need to do it smart.

One Account can easily get you to $1k - $5k USD per month, but if you're ready to make more than that, you'll need to make some investments into Not getting banned.

Instagram and others doesn't care that you're a freelancer trying to land clients.

If you look like a bot, spam accounts, or violate their terms, they will ban you.

And they won't just ban one account.

They'll ban all of them — even your main personal account.

So in this section, I'm going to show you exactly how to protect yourself and run multiple accounts safely without ending up with a bunch of disabled profiles.

Now when i refer to instagram in this case study, don't take it literally, i say instagram because that's what works for me buty you can still apply this to Tiktok, X, Facebook, linkedin etc

Why Instagram Bans Multiple Accounts

First, let's understand why Instagram bans people in the first place.

Instagram's job is to protect users from spam, bots, and fake accounts.

So they've built a sophisticated detection system that looks for patterns that suggest one person is running multiple accounts for shady purposes.

Here's what Instagram is watching for:

Red Flag #1: Same IP Address

To check your ip address, visit this website; <https://whatismyipaddress.com/>

The website just like instagram can detect both your sim card Ip address, and your internet Ip (wifi) address

This means, If you log into 5+ accounts from the same Wi-Fi or mobile data, Instagram sees this as suspicious.

Why?

Because normal people don't log into 10 different accounts from the same device every day.

What Instagram thinks:

"This person is either running bots or spamming. Let's flag them."

Red Flag #2: Same Device Fingerprint

Even if you change your IP address (using a VPN or mobile data), Instagram can still track your device.

Here's what they track:

- ✓ Operating system (iOS, Android, Windows)
- ✓ Browser type and version (Chrome, Safari, Firefox)
- ✓ Screen resolution
- ✓ Timezone and language settings
- ✓ Fonts installed on your device
- ✓ WebGL and canvas fingerprints (technical stuff that identifies your device uniquely)

All of this creates a fingerprint summary — a unique ID for your device.

If all your accounts share the same fingerprint, Instagram knows they're coming from one person.

And that's when they start banning.

Red Flag #3: Rapid, Automated Actions

If you:

- Send 50 DMs in 10 minutes
- Follow 100 people in one hour
- Like 200 posts back-to-back

Instagram's algorithm will flag you as a bot.

Even if you're doing it manually, if it looks automated, you're toast.

Red Flag #4: New Accounts Acting Too Fast

If you create a brand new Instagram account and immediately start:

- Following 50 people
- Sending 20 DMs
- Liking 100 posts

Instagram will ban you instantly.

Why?

Because real people don't behave like that.

New accounts need a warm-up period before they can act aggressively.

How to Safely Run Multiple Instagram Accounts (Step-by-Step)

Alright, now that you know why accounts get banned, let me show you how to avoid it.

Strategy #1: Use Different Devices (If Possible)

The simplest (but most expensive) way to run multiple accounts is to use different devices.

Examples:

- Account #1: Your main phone
- Account #2: An old phone or tablet
- Account #3: A laptop or desktop browser

This way, each account has a different fingerprint and Instagram sees them as separate users.

Pros:

- ✓ Safest method
- ✓ No technical setup required

Cons:

- ✗ Expensive (you need multiple devices)
- ✗ Hard to scale (what if you want 10 accounts?)

Strategy #2: Buy Aged Instagram Accounts (Recommended for Beginners)

Instead of creating new accounts (which Instagram watches closely), you can buy aged accounts — accounts that are 6 months to 2+ years old with some activity already on them.

Why this works:

- Aged accounts are less suspicious than brand new ones
- They already have a history, so Instagram trusts them more
- You can start outreach immediately (with proper warm-up)

Where to buy aged accounts:

- ✓ <https://www.acctbazaar.com> — Trusted marketplace for aged IG accounts
- ✓ <https://www.pvamarket.net> — Phone-verified aged accounts

What to look for when buying:

- Age: At least 6 months old (the older, the better)
- Activity: Accounts with some followers, posts, and engagement history
- Phone verified: Makes the account look more legit
- Email access: You should be able to change the email and password

Cost: Around $3–$10 per account (depending on age and followers)

Important: Wait 1 week after buying before making any changes. Don't immediately change the name, profile picture, bio, or username. Let Instagram see normal activity first.

Use it to message any of your friends, use it to interact with posts, one move at a time, pretend like you're still trying to figure out how social media works, just like a new user.

Be normal.

Strategy #3: Use Antidetect Browsers (Advanced — For Scaling)

Please don't get overwhelmed by this chapter, as it can get a bit confusing. You can totally do without this part of the book if you are still under $1k per month.

If you're serious about running 10+ accounts and want to do it from one device, you need an anti-detect browser.

What Is an Antidetect Browser?

An antidetect browser is a tool that lets you create multiple browser profiles, each with its own unique fingerprint.

This means Instagram sees each profile as coming from a different person on a different device — even though you're using the same computer.

Think of it like this:

Normally, if you open 10 Instagram accounts in Chrome, they all share the same fingerprint and profile.

But with an anti-detect browser, each account gets its own fingerprint — different OS, different timezone, different browser settings.

Instagram can't link them together.

Important: Watch this multilogin tutorial, don't do anything, come back here and continue reading.

<https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=9UQuIJkMJFk> (Multi login tutorial)

Important to note: A lot of anti detect browsers don't come with an IP address, it is controlled by your wifi or sim,

Antidetect browser is just like using another phone or computer, it's like being a completely different person online.

However, if you use a different device but the same internet, you can still get cooked (caught)

Solution? Proxies.

Before i continue with Anti detect browsers, let's understand what a proxy is.

What is a Proxy?

A proxy is a middleman that sits between you and the internet.

Instead of connecting directly to a website (like Instagram), you connect through the proxy first.

The proxy then connects to Instagram on your behalf. (Via your browser)

So Instagram sees the proxy's IP address, not yours.

To understand it better:

Imagine you want to buy bread from a shop, but you don't want the shop owner to know who you are. (Because you're owing already.)

So you send your friend to buy it for you.

Your friend walks into the shop, buys the bread, and brings it back to you.

The shop owner only sees your friend, not you.

In this analogy:

- You = Your real device/IP address
- Your friend = The proxy
- The shop owner = Instagram

The proxy hides your real identity and makes you look like someone else.

But mind you, proxies are NOT VPN, I'll explain later.

Why Do You Need a Proxy for Instagram?

Let's say you're ready to scale things a bit, and you're running 5 Instagram accounts for client outreach,

If you log into all 5 accounts from your same home Wi-Fi and device, Instagram sees this:

"All 5 accounts are logging in from the same IP address (123.45.67.89). That's suspicious. This person is probably running bots. Let's ban them."

But if you use proxies, here's what Instagram sees:

- Account #1: IP address 111.22.33.44 (New York)
- Account #2: IP address 222.33.44.55 (Los Angeles)
- Account #3: IP address 333.44.55.66 (Miami)
- Account #4: IP address 444.55.66.77 (Chicago)
- Account #5: IP address 555.66.77.88 (Dallas)

Now Instagram thinks: "These are 5 different people from 5 different cities. Looks normal."

That's why you need proxies.

A proxy is not a VPN, A proxy is better.

Types of Proxies (And Which One to Use)

Not all proxies are the same.

Some are safe for Instagram. Others will get you banned instantly.

Here are the main types:

1. Datacenter Proxies ✗ (Don't Use)

What they are:

- IPs that come from data centers (big server farms)
- Not tied to real homes or real people

Why they're bad:

- Instagram knows these are popular datacenter IPs
- Thousands of people use the same IPs
- High chance of getting banned

Example:

- You use a datacenter proxy
- 50 other people are using the same IP
- Instagram sees 50 accounts logging in from one IP
- Ban.

Cost: Cheap ($5-$10/month)

Verdict: ❌ Don't use for Instagram

2. Residential Proxies ✅ (Use This)

What they are:

- IPs that come from real homes with real internet connections
- Provided by real ISPs (like your home Wi-Fi)

Why they're good:

- Instagram sees them as normal users
- Much harder to detect
- Each IP looks like a real person

Example:

- You use a residential proxy from New York
- Instagram sees an IP from a real Verizon customer in New York
- Looks completely normal

Cost: More expensive ($8-$20/GB or $12-$50/month)

Verdict: ✅ This is what you should use

Important to note: Use your normal IP address and IG account to conduct research for your lead tracker; don't use a paid Proxy to watch videos, only for messaging, so you don't use up your credit. (If it's pay as you go) More on that later.

3. Mobile Proxies ✅ (Even Better, But Expensive)

What they are:

- IPs that come from real mobile devices (phones, tablets)
- Uses 4G/5G mobile data connections

Why they're good:

- Instagram trusts mobile IPs more than anything else
- Almost impossible to detect
- Best for high-value accounts

Cost: Very expensive ($50-$100/month per IP)

Verdict:  Use if you can afford it (but residential is fine for most people)

4. VPNs (Don't Use for Multi-Accounting)

What they are:

- Services like NordVPN, ExpressVPN, etc.
- Changes your IP address

Why they're bad for Instagram:

- Thousands of people share the same VPN IP
- Instagram knows these are VPN servers
- Using a VPN for multiple accounts will get you banned

When to use them:

- VPNs are fine for privacy (browsing, hiding your location, etc.)
- But not for running multiple Instagram accounts

Verdict:  Don't use for multi-accounting

How to Use a Proxy with Instagram

Here's how the setup works:

Step 1: Buy a Proxy

Go to a proxy provider like:

- Bright Data (best quality, expensive)
- smartproxy.org (Affordable)
- Smartproxy.com or Decodo (good quality, affordable)
- Proxyscrape (cheap, for testing)

When you check these websites, depending on price, you can go for Buy residential proxies or mobile (not datacenter).

Once you visit any of these websites, you'll likely start getting adverts from others similar. But always look for reviews before making any payment.

The screenshot shows the Decodo website interface. At the top, there's a navigation bar with the Decodo logo, a language selector (EN), and a 'Start for free' button. Below the navigation bar, a tagline reads 'Stay flexible and avoid CAPTCHAs, IP bans, and restrictions without a single hassle.' Two tabs, 'Proxies' and 'Scraping APIs', are visible. The main content area features six cards arranged in a 2x3 grid. The first card is titled 'What is a proxy?' and explains its function. The other five cards list different proxy types with their respective prices and 'Start free trial' buttons. The cards are: Residential proxies ($1.5/GB), Static residential proxies ($0.27/IP), Mobile proxies ($2.25/GB), Datacenter proxies ($0.020/IP), and Site Unblocker ($0.95/1K req).

Proxy Type	Price	Description
Residential proxies	from $1.5/GB	Real household device IPs with certain physical locations.
Static residential proxies	from $0.27/IP	ISP IPs blending residential proxy authenticity with datacenter proxy stability.
Mobile proxies	from $2.25/GB	Real mobile device IPs connected to any mobile carrier.
Datacenter proxies	from $0.020/IP	IPs coming from servers located in data centers.
Site Unblocker	from $0.95/1K req	Advanced proxy solution helping to effortlessly avoid CAPTCHAs and IP bans.

From the image above, notice that the more reliable it is, the more expensive it gets.

Remember not to stream videos or do research from proxy accounts. Else you'll pay more.

Also notice that for $9 here, you can get upto 10gb valid for 30 days, this is like the amount of T-fare you give to your friend to go get bread on your behalf.

Step 2: Get Your Proxy Credentials

The proxy provider will give you:

- IP address (e.g., 111.22.33.44)
- Port (e.g., 8080)
- Username (e.g., user123)
- Password (e.g., pass456)

Step 3: Connect the Proxy to Your Antidetect Browser

Open your antidetect browser (GoLogin, AdsPower, etc.)

Create a new browser profile.

In the settings, enter your proxy details:

- Proxy Type: HTTP or SOCKS5
- IP Address: 111.22.33.44
- Port: 8080
- Username: user123
- Password: pass456

Save it.

Step 4: Log Into Instagram

Now, when you open Instagram in that browser profile, it will use the proxy's IP address, not yours.

Instagram will think you're logging in from wherever the proxy is located (e.g., New York).

Common Confusion: "How Many Proxies Am I Buying?"

When you see proxy pricing like "$9 for 10GB", it's easy to think you're buying one proxy or a fixed number of proxies.

That's not how it works.

Let me clear this up:

What You're Actually Buying:

You're NOT buying individual proxies.

You're buying bandwidth (data traffic).

Think of it like buying mobile data for your phone.

Here's What You Get with the $9 Plan (10GB):

- ✓ Access to 100M+ residential IP addresses (not just one)
- ✓ 10GB of bandwidth to use across those IPs
- ✓ Ability to run multiple accounts — each gets its own unique IP

You're not limited by the number of IPs.

You're limited by how much data (GB) you use.

Simple Example:

Let's say you buy the $9 plan (10GB) from Smartproxy.

You can use that 10GB across 5 Instagram accounts.

Here's what happens:

- Account #1 gets IP address 111.22.33.44 (New York)
- Account #2 gets IP address 222.33.44.55 (Los Angeles)
- Account #3 gets IP address 333.44.55.66 (Miami)
- Account #4 gets IP address 444.55.66.77 (Chicago)
- Account #5 gets IP address 555.66.77.88 (Dallas)

All 5 accounts pull from the same 10GB pool, but each gets its own unique IP address and you manually set it up per social media account.

How Long Will 10GB Last for 5 Accounts?

If you're doing light outreach (10 DMs/day per account + basic scrolling):

- Each account uses ~35 MB per day
- 5 accounts = 175 MB per day
- 10GB = 10,000 MB
- $10,000 \text{ MB} \div 175 \text{ MB/day} = \sim 57 \text{ days}$ (almost 2 months)

Translation: The $9 plan can run 5 accounts for about 2 months if you're doing light outreach.

Bottom Line:

You're NOT buying "5 proxies."

You're buying 10GB of bandwidth that gives you access to millions of IPs.

The $9 plan (10GB) is perfect for running 5 Instagram accounts for cold outreach.

Each account gets its own unique IP, and the 10GB will last you about 30 days of light use, depending on where you buy from.

The reason you see you might see an option for 100gb is that some people buy thousands of IG accounts and run a mass dm system without getting banned.

Some people even buy it (bot account) to spread misinformation, scam, or engagement farming. Don't be that person.

Think of a proxy like wearing a mask.

When you go to Instagram without a proxy, you're showing your real face (your real IP address).

But when you use a proxy, you're wearing a different mask for each account.

Instagram sees 5 different faces (5 different IPs), so they think you're 5 different people.

That's how you stay safe.

Proxy = A middleman that hides your real IP address and makes you look like you're logging in from somewhere else.

You need proxies if you're running multiple Instagram accounts.

Use residential proxies (not datacenter or VPN).

1 proxy per account.

I really hope this makes sense now.

Strategy #4: Use Residential Proxies (Essential for Safety)

Remember, we're talking about how to safely use multiple IG accounts; you'll understand fully by the time we're done with this book.

Even with an anti-detect browser, you still need different IP addresses for each account.

Here's why:

If all your accounts log in from the same IP address, Instagram will link them together.

So you need proxies — servers that give each account a different IP address.

What Kind of Proxies Should You Use?

 Don't Use: Free proxies, datacenter proxies, or VPNs

Why?

- Instagram can detect these easily
- They're shared by thousands of people
- High chance of getting banned

 Use: Residential proxies

Why?

- Residential proxies use real IP addresses from real homes
- Instagram sees them as normal users
- Much harder to detect

Strategy #5: Warm Up New Accounts (Critical)

Even with aged accounts, proxies, and anti-detect browsers, you still need to warm up each account before sending DMs.

Here's how:

Week 1: Act Like a Normal User

- Log in once a day
- Scroll through your feed for 5–10 minutes
- Like 5–10 posts
- Comment on 2–3 posts (real comments, not generic stuff)
- Follow 3–5 accounts per day

Do NOT:

- ✗ Send any DMs
- ✗ Follow 50 people at once
- ✗ Change your bio or profile picture immediately

Week 2: Light Activity

- Continue daily logins
- Like 10–15 posts per day
- Comment on 5–7 posts
- Follow 5–10 accounts per day
- Post 1–2 stories

Still no DMs.

Week 3: Start Outreach (Slowly)

- Send 3 DMs per day max
- Space them out (morning, afternoon, evening)

- Keep them personalized (not copy-paste)

Week 4: Increase Volume

- Send 5–10 DMs per day
- Keep following, liking, and commenting
- Post 1–2 times per week

Month 2: Scale

- Send 10–20 DMs per day
- Continue normal activity (likes, comments, stories)
- Never go above 20 DMs per day per account

Strategy #6: Spread Actions Across Time

Don't log into all your accounts at once and start sending DMs.

Instagram tracks time patterns.

If you log into 5 accounts at 9:00 AM and all of them start sending DMs at 9:05 AM, that's a red flag.

Instead:

- Account #1: Send DMs at 9:00 AM
- Account #2: Send DMs at 11:00 AM
- Account #3: Send DMs at 2:00 PM
- Account #4: Send DMs at 5:00 PM
- Account #5: Send DMs at 8:00 PM

Each time you max out your outreach per account, and try to rotate things, Instagram is looking for a pattern, don't give it to them.

Space everything out.

Make it look human.

Strategy #7: Use Different Content on Each Account

Don't use the same bio, same profile picture, or same posts on all your accounts.

Instagram can detect this.

Instead:

- Each account should have a unique bio (same offer, different wording)
- Different profile pictures
- Different content (if you're posting)

Summary: How to Run Multiple IG Accounts Safely

Here's the complete checklist:

- ✓ Buy aged accounts (6+ months old) from trusted sources
- ✓ Use an antidetect browser (GoLogin, AdsPower, or Multilogin)
- ✓ Use residential proxies (Bright Data, Smartproxy, or Proxyscrape)
- ✓ Warm up each account for 2–3 weeks before sending DMs
- ✓ Limit DMs to 10–20 per day per account
- ✓ Space out actions (don't log in and DM immediately)
- ✓ Use unique content on each account (bio, profile pic, posts)
- ✓ Act like a human (like, comment, scroll, watch stories)

Follow these rules, and you'll run 10+ accounts without getting banned.

Ignore them, and you can lose everything. (especially if you already have a history of getting banned)

Quick Question: Should I Use My Real Name on All My Outreach Accounts and Tag My Main Profile in the Bio?

No. Don't do that.

Here's why:

If you use the same name on all accounts and tag your main profile in every bio, Instagram will:

1. Link all your accounts together
2. Flag you as spam
3. Ban all your accounts — including your main one

You'll lose everything. Especially if you already have a history of getting banned, meaning a compromised IP.

Why This Is a Bad Idea:

1. Instagram Will Detect You

Instagram's algorithm is designed to find connected accounts.

If all your accounts:

- Use the same name
- Tag the same profile
- Post similar content

Instagram will think: "This is one person running fake accounts. Ban them."

2. You Look Like a Spammer

Imagine you're a client.

You get a DM from "Paschal M."

You check the bio. It says: "Run by @theofficialpaschal"

Then you get another DM from a different account.

You check that bio. It also says: "Run by @theofficialpaschal"

What do you think?

"This guy is spamming me. Block."

3. If One Account Gets Banned, All of Them Go Down

If Instagram bans one account and sees it's connected to 5 others, they'll ban all of them.

Even your main account.

What to Do Instead: Make Each Account Look Independent

Each account should look like it's run by a completely different person.

How to Do This:

- ✓ Use different names on each account
- ✓ Write different bios (same offer, different wording)
- ✓ Use different profile pictures
- ✓ Don't tag your main account anywhere including dms, at least don't use @
- ✓ Post different content (if you're posting at all)

What About Credibility?

You might be thinking:

"But if I don't tag my main account, how will clients know I'm legit?"

Answer:

You build credibility through your outreach,

Here's how:

1. Send a value-first DM (compliment + insight + offer to help)
2. Record a Loom video showing them what you can fix (if they give permission)
3. Share your portfolio/case studies (when they ask)
4. Hop on a call and close them

By the time they're ready to work with you, they've already seen your work.

They don't need to see your main account.

What If a Client Asks About Your Main Account?

If they ask, you can say:

"Yeah, this is one of my outreach accounts. Here's my main page: "theofficialpaschal""

Or:

"I keep my personal page separate from client work, but here's my portfolio: [\[link\]](#)"

The key:

You tell them when they ask.

You don't advertise it in your bio where Instagram can see it.

Summary:

✗ Don't:

- Use the same name on all accounts
- Tag your main account in all bios
- Use the same profile picture

✓ Do:

- Make each account look independent
- Use different names, bios, and pictures
- Build credibility through your work

Keep your outreach accounts separate.

Keep them safe.

Safety isn't optional.

If you lose your accounts, you lose your ability to land clients.

So invest in the right tools, follow the rules, and treat each account like it's your only account.

Do it right, and you'll never have to worry about bans again.

Cost implication to test this out for a month: $19 TOTAL

What You Need	Cost
5 Aged IG Accounts	$3 x 5 = 15
Anti-detect browser (ADB)	$0 Free trial
Residential proxy	$9 (if using smart proxy)

That's $19 Total.

Remember, you don't have to do this. I used just 1 account, and I got results.

The Limitation:

AdsPower's free plan only supports 2 browser profiles.

So you'll need to:

- Use the 2 free profiles for your 2 main accounts
- Manually log in/out for the other 3 accounts (not ideal, but it works)

Or you can find an anti-detect with better free plans.

How to Make $19 Work:

Month 1:

- Send 10-20 DMs/day total across all 5 accounts

- Focus on quality over quantity

Month 2:

- If you land a client ($200–$600), upgrade to the paid setup
- If not, renew proxies ($9) and keep going

ROI Reality Check:

Your investment: $19

Your first client: $200–$1,000+

Return: 10x–50x your investment

Even if it takes 2 months, that's a 1,000%+ ROI.

$19 is all you need to start landing clients.

Start today. Land one client. Upgrade later.

Action Step:

Pick one anti-detect browser and one proxy provider from the list above.

Set up 2–3 accounts.

Warm them up for 2 weeks.

Then start outreach.

Final Notes

Prospect hunting is not glamorous.

But it's what separates people who get clients from people who stay broke.

One of my readers told me she was scared to message clients.

Scared of rejection.

Scared, she wasn't good enough.

Basically, she judged herself before the prospects even judged her.

Don't do that.

Don't overthink it.

Just pick one method and go all in.

Most people fail because they don't do this consistently.

Not because they're not good enough.

Your First Task

Your goal right now is not to close any client.

Your goal is to build a full lead list of people who could pay you.

Then, in the next chapter, I'll show you exactly what to say to them.

For now, i simply need you to test some of what you have learnt so you internalize them first.

Action Steps (Do This Before Moving to Chapter 4)

Don't just read and move on. Actually do the work.

Here's your step-by-step checklist:

Step 1: Memorize the Definitions (5 Minutes)

Write these down on paper or in your notes:

- ✓ Prospect = Someone who fits your ideal customer but hasn't heard of you yet
- ✓ Lead = A prospect who has interacted with you in any way
- ✓ Client = Someone who has paid you money

Until you understand this, you won't know who to message or when to follow up.

Step 2: Set Up Your Lead Tracker (10 Minutes)

Go to this link and make a copy of my free lead tracker:

https://docs.google.com/spreadsheets/d/1NaGLfALf264q9mkaYcg7OvT8Gk_IxdN7gjt9Iv14v6A/edit?usp=sharing

Click File → Make a Copy

This is where you'll track every single prospect you find.

Step 3: Find 10 Prospects Using Facebook Ads Library (30 Minutes)

Go to: <https://www.facebook.com/ads/library>

1. Set location to United States or any country of interest
2. Click "All Ads"
3. Search for your niche (e.g., "fitness coaching," "online course," "dropshipping")
4. Click on 10 ads that catch your eye
5. For each one:
 - Check their website/landing page
 - Look at their Instagram or Facebook page
 - Find what they're doing wrong (weak copy, bad design, poor funnel, etc.)
6. Add all 10 to your lead tracker (Smart people will do more than 10)

Step 4: Find the Decision-Maker on LinkedIn (20 Minutes)

For each of the 10 businesses you found:

1. Go to LinkedIn to check if they're there
2. Search for the business name
3. Find the CEO, Founder, CMO, or Marketing Manager
4. Write down their full name in your lead tracker

Step 5: Find 10 More Prospects Using TikTok/YouTube (30 Minutes)

Pick one niche (fitness, crypto, e-commerce, etc.)

Go to TikTok or YouTube

Search like you're their audience:

- "How to lose belly fat" (for fitness coaches)
- "Introduction to crypto trading" (for crypto course sellers)
- "How to start dropshipping" (for e-commerce coaches)

Find 10 creators making content in that niche.

For each one:

1. Watch their video
2. Click on their profile
3. Find their Instagram or email
4. Add them to your lead tracker

Step 6: Decide If You're Running Multiple Accounts (10 Minutes)

Ask yourself:

Do I want to run 1 account or 5+ accounts?

If 1 account:

- You can start for free using your main Instagram
- Skip the proxy/antidetect browser stuff for now

- Send 3-5 DMs/day max to avoid bans

If 5+ accounts:

- Budget $19 to get started properly
- Buy 5 aged IG accounts ($15)
- Buy 10GB of residential proxies ($9)
- Download AdsPower (free plan)

Write down your decision.

Step 7: (Optional) Buy Your Setup If You're Running Multiple Accounts (1 Hour)

If you decided to run 5+ accounts, do this:

1. Buy 5 aged Instagram accounts:

- Go to <https://www.acctbazaar.com> or <https://www.accfarm.com>
- Buy 5 accounts (6+ months old, phone verified)
- Cost: ~$15 total

2. Buy residential proxies:

- Go to <https://smartproxy.com>
- Buy the 10GB plan ($9)
- Save your proxy credentials (IP, port, username, password)

3. Download AdsPower:

- Go to <https://www.adspower.com>
- Sign up for the free plan
- Download and install the software

4. Set up 2 browser profiles:

- Create Profile #1 → Add your first aged account + proxy
- Create Profile #2 → Add your second aged account + different proxy

Don't do anything with the accounts yet. Just set them up.

We'll start warming them up in the next chapter.

Step 8: Review Your Progress (5 Minutes)

By now, you should have:

- ✓ A lead tracker with 20 prospects (10 from Facebook Ads Library, 10 from TikTok/YouTube)
- ✓ LinkedIn names for decision-makers
- ✓ A clear decision on whether you're running 1 or 5+ accounts
- ✓ (Optional) 5 aged accounts + proxies + antidetect browser ready to go

If you have all of this, you're ready for Chapter 4.

If not, go back and finish the steps above.

Final Reminder:

Don't skip this.

Most people read books and never take action.

That's why they stay broke.

You have 20 prospects in your tracker.

In the next chapter, I'll show you exactly what to say to them.

But only if you actually did the work above.

Checklist Summary:

- [] Memorized prospect, lead, and client definitions
- [] Made a copy of the lead tracker
- [] Found 10 prospects on Facebook Ads Library
- [] Found decision-makers on LinkedIn
- [] Found 10 prospects on TikTok/YouTube
- [] Decided on 1 account vs. 5+ accounts
- [] (Optional) Bought aged accounts, proxies, and set up AdsPower
- [] Reviewed progress

Once you've checked all these boxes, move to Chapter 4.

Chapter 4: Understanding Lead Generation

Before we get into actual cold DMing and outreach messages, you need to understand something fundamental: which is Lead Generation.

Lead generation is how you fill your pipeline (list of potential clients).

And if your pipeline is empty, nothing else you do will matter.

Let's make it simple.

Lead generation (or client acquisition) is just the process of getting in front of people who could be interested in what you offer, and getting them to pay attention to you.

There are about five main ways this happens, and they are categorized into two main groups. (Outbound and Inbound).

1. You send out cold DMs or emails (outbound)
2. You post valuable content, and people come to you (inbound)
3. You run paid ads to get DMs and responses (inbound)
4. You get referrals from past clients (inbound)
5. You use affiliates or industry partners (inbound)

Like I said, All of these can be categorized into two main approaches:

Inbound vs. Outbound Acquisition

Outbound:

You go to them.

- Cold DMs
- Cold Emails

- Pitching via LinkedIn, Instagram, X (Twitter)

You do the work. You make the first move. You are hunting.

Inbound:

You create conditions, systems or engage in activities that will make them come to you.

- Through your content
- Through referrals
- Through ads
- Through partners or affiliates

You are attracting.

Both of these methods work. But when you're just starting out, and no one knows who you are? Outbound is better.

That said, let's look at some solid inbound strategies you can start combining with your outbound game.

Inbound Lead Generation Methods

1. Content Creation

This is one of the best long-term plays.

Let me tell you something. Way before I began running ads to promote this book, Most people who found me, who are even reading this book right now, found me through my content on TikTok. I didn't DM you. You came to me.

That's the power of content.

Even though I don't post as much as I should, the few valuable things I've posted have done the heavy lifting. That's why I always say:

Content is the CV of the future.

I did content on TikTok, helped people, racked up followers, created a demand and got people to buy this book, got testimonials and used it to run ads.

You don't have to be perfect. Just start.

Even if you only post once a week, do it. Even once a month. Just have something valuable that tells people:

"This guy knows what he's doing."

You don't need a hundred posts. You just need enough proof that when someone checks you out, they believe you can help them.

Let me give you a real-life example:

There's a guy I follow online, his Ig username was "canvalord", he would make free content breaking down how business owners can make eye-catching videos and graphics using Canva, he grew his page to 10k followers doing this and guess what, business owners were reaching out to him to help them with their social media post flyers.

But, the issue with doing this is, if your social media account was created in Nigeria, and your target includes people in the West (US, UK, Canada, etc.) chances are your content will be prioritized for the Nigerian audience or people in your country.

And as someone interested in landing foreign clients, running ads with your best content, targeting your desired country, will be your best bet. Alongside cold outreach,

More on that later.

The good thing about leads who reach out based on your content is that they are already halfway sold.

The only thing you'll need to sort out is pricing.

2. Affiliates

This one is underrated.

Think of people who serve the same audience as you, but offer different services.

As a copywriter, I've partnered with:

- Website designers
- Funnel builders
- Media buyers (people who run ads for businesses)
- Marketing agencies &
- Sales closers

They already have clients. Sometimes those clients need a copywriter, and guess who they refer? Me.

Here's how I usually pitch them:

"Hey, I've worked with [insert niche] before, and I know your clients probably need [insert your service]. If you ever have an overflow or need to refer someone, I'd love to help. And I'm happy to split my pay with you.

Clean.

Then negotiate later when they eventually refer you, a good deal is 20% to them since you're doing all the work.

Now, if you're a designer, you can reach out to:

- Copywriters
- Brand consultants
- Ads managers

And flip that same pitch.

I've made over $5k from referrals alone, and I didn't even do the outreach. Just promise those people a cut of your money, and they will be happy to refer you.

One DM. One agreement. One trusted partner.

Then they keep sending you work.

Action Step:

Make a list of 50 service providers in your niche who might need to refer work. (using the same outreach strategy)

DM them, offer value, and mention a referral bonus.

Remember WIIFM.

3. Blogging and (Long-Term Inbound)

This is not for everyone. And it's definitely not for you if you need money fast.

But blogging can stack leads over time if you:

- Have a website (blog)
- Understand SEO
- Write helpful articles related to your service

You can also disguise your pitch as an advertorial, an informative blog post that sells your service subtly.

Let's say you're a video editor. You could write a post like:

“5 Ways Course Creators Can Boost Conversions With These Video Edit format.”

In the post, you break it all down and at the end say:

“If you want help applying this, or want a free content Audit, DM me ‘VIDEO’ on Instagram and I’ll take a look at your content for free.”

Boom, free lead.

Give it time. Blogging takes 3–6 months minimum to build traffic.

But once it kicks in? It brings leads on autopilot.

Another thing that works is YouTube video creation; the similarity between this and blogging is the SEO potential; over time, your videos will rank, and as people watch your videos, they will want to reach out.

This process takes time, and if you are in for the long haul, it's worth exploring.

Action Step:

If you already have a site, create one article that answers a painful question for your target audience. Add a soft CTA.

Outbound Lead Generation Methods

1. Running Ads

This is for the ballers. Or at least people with a bit of extra cash to burn.

Running ads can bring leads fast. But, and this is a big BUT, if your profile isn't optimized and you don't have good content, OR even case studies, people will just skip.

Don't run ads to a dead page.

That's like throwing money in the lagoon.

If you want to run ads:

- Clean your profile first
- Have a video that introduces your offer
- Post 3-5 solid content pieces
- Have Highlights that show some kind of proof.

Then boost your post. Or run a lead form or "book a call" funnel.

Keep in mind, running ads to US clients can be expensive. Sometimes $3-$20 per lead. So only run ads when:

- You've validated your offer
- You've closed a few clients organically
- You have money to test and tweak

If that's not you yet? Focus on the next method instead.

The Boss of Them All: Cold Outreach (Coming Next)

Let me be blunt:

Cold DMs is still the fastest, cheapest, and most beginner-friendly way to get clients.

You don't need followers. You don't need a personal brand. You don't need money.

You just need:

- A good offer (already covered in Chapter 1)
- A clean profile (Chapter 2)
- A method to find people (Chapter 3)
- And the right message (coming up next)

Final Word on Lead Generation

Most people struggle with lead gen because they try to do everything at once.

Don't.

Pick one or two methods and go hard on them. If you're just starting out, outbound is your friend. Start with DMs.

If you've landed a few clients and want more leverage, start building your inbound machine (content + referrals).

The leads are out there. You just need to know where to look and how to show up.

Action Steps

- Choose 1 inbound and 1 outbound method to focus on this month
- Create a simple content calendar (even if it's 1 post/week)
- Identify 10 affiliate/partner opportunities and reach out
- If you can afford it, test ads only after optimizing your page

In the next chapter, we go deep into the king of client acquisition:

Cold DMs — what to say, how to say it, and how to make strangers say "yes."

Hey there, before you continue, I want to let you know that I really appreciate feedback on my work.

Would you be able to take 60 seconds to drop me a review on this book? I want to know how you feel, was this worth your money, and have you gained value? Tell me.. With your reviews i will know what to improve for the next version.

Chapter 5: Mastering Cold DMs

(Turning strangers into clients)

If you learn how to send cold DMs that get replies, you'll never lack clients. You'll never go broke. This is how I went from being dead-broke, squatting in someone's apartment for months, to working with clients paying me thousands of dollars monthly for my copywriting business.

Cold dm is the king of all outreach, especially for beginners.

But here's the catch: most people are doing it wrong. They either sound like robots... or beggars. Or both.

Let's fix that.

So, What Exactly Is a Cold DM?

A cold DM is a message you send to someone who doesn't know you. They've never seen your face, never heard your name, never clicked your profile.

They are strangers. And yet, you're trying to start a conversation that could turn into a deal.

Sounds wild, but it works... if you do it right.

Now, your first goal is NOT to sell them. Your first goal is:

Get a reply.

Once they reply, Instagram or X moves you to their primary inbox. From that moment, they'll start getting all your follow-ups as notifications.

That's when the game starts.

The 3 Cold DM Methods I Use

I've tested everything. After sending thousands of DMs, here's what's worked best for me:

1. Text Message (Simple and Low Effort)

Start with this if you're new or feeling unsure.

Structure:

- Quick compliment or context
- Offer a helpful insight
- Small CTA to spark curiosity

Example: "Name, I saw your funnel breakdown video. Clean work, have you been able to properly process these leads out of IG for better conversions? I've got a small idea that might help. Want me to shoot it over?"

"Name, I saw your funnel breakdown video. Clean work. Have you been able to properly process these leads out of IG for better conversions? I've got a small idea I implemented for (@tag someone you worked for) that saw 38% more conversions. Want me to shoot it over?"

No need to introduce yourself with "Hi, I'm XYZ." They don't care. Spark curiosity first.

Remember, once you send this out, the first thing they do is check your profile to know if you're worth responding to.

Another important thing to note: If you copy this dm verbatim, just like everyone else, you will not get results.

It's better to use any example I use in this book as a base, use your brain to find alternatives, and if your brain no longer works as it should, employ AI, use ChatGPT, it's free. Don't just copy me verbatim.

Tell it what you want to do, give it the script sample, and ask it to suggest more curiosity-driven texts you can use to get replies; it's as easy as that.

Remember to tell Ai the kind of client you are reaching out to, what they do etc.

2. Voice Note (More Personal, Higher Risk)

This works surprisingly well — IF you sound confident.

Why it works:

- Nobody sends voice notes to strangers. You stand out.
- It builds trust fast. They hear your voice. You sound human.
- And it builds curiosity, which means they're more likely to open your dm

Rules:

- 30–59 seconds max
- Rehearse/practice with your WhatsApp voice notes before you attempt
- Don't sound like you're reading a script

Example: "Hey bro, I'll be quick. I just checked out your website, and I noticed something's off fixed it for one of my clients, and we saw a 28% increase in conversions. I'd love to record a quick Loom and show you what I mean. Should I send it over?"

If your accent or tone needs work, practice. Ask friends. Improve.
Remember, the goal is to get a response, not for them to "just" read.

If you are more specific about the problem or issue you can fix, the better response you'd get.

Just get a response, and for them to send a response, they have to move you from request to inbox.

3. Personalized Video (The God Tier)

This is what separates the amateurs from the closers. When someone sees your face, hears your tone, and feels your confidence, walls start falling.

But to do this, you must have employed other methods to provide value upfront, you need to have been in the primary folder for a while before doing this.

Say 3 days to a week of nurturing or leading with value.

Make it about THEM. Tailor it.

Structure:

- Say their name (to prove you didn't send it to everyother person)
- Mention what you saw (be specific)
- Drop a suggestive value insight
- Make it feel like this video could ONLY have been made for them, that is, if you sent the video to someone else, it won't make sense. This is very important; they need to know that it's not a mass video you send to everyone.

"Hey Alex, I just saw your ad. Hook was fire. But I noticed you send people straight to your YouTube, to be honest, it's costing you a lot, you're probably missing out on 100s of leads every other week. I have a clean workaround that helped another coach almost double his acquisition rate in 5 days. Let me know if you wanna see it."

Suggestive Value, The Secret Sauce

Here's where most people blow it. They pitch.

Don't pitch. Suggest.

Suggestive Value = You point out a small opportunity that helps them, without asking for anything, then take a step back by recommending they give the job to someone else... this will pass the idea you're not here to beg, and that's a big turn on for clients. You can do this with loom when pointing out your suggestions to them.

Be like a friend who saw something and thought, "Yo, I gotta tell this guy."

Example of what I say: "Hey bro, I saw your site. Loved the vibe. I also noticed you don't collect emails before sending people to Discord. That's cool, but it also means you can't effectively follow up on people based on their behaviour or time of joining, pretty crude. I helped someone fix this recently, and now he's adding 3k leads/month. Want me to show you what we did? I can shoot you a quick loom video to point it out, and you can simply send it to someone in your team to fix.

You're not criticizing. You're not begging. You're simply suggesting.

And it works.

When they finally agree to the loom, end it by saying, "You can get someone on your team to fix this, it will take them max two weeks to implement, and you will start seeing results immediately."

Remember, don't copy me verbatim.

Using Loom: How I Deliver Real Value

When someone replies after your initial dm, that's your greenlight. Now, it's time to show, not tell.

Loom.com is perfect for this.

What to do:

1. Open their funnel, page, or ad on your screen
 2. Record a 2-4 minute video
 3. Say their name, mention what they do (suggests that this is unique and only for them, not a general presentation)
 4. Show them something to improve
 5. Suggest a fix (without overselling)
 6. End with: "You can send this to your team...."
- Usually, (if they are interested), they will ask, "How much to get this done?"

Now, don't respond. immediately, screams desperation. wait 30 mins to 2 hours,

If it's a low-value fix (under $500), you can tell them the price and close them there in the dm,

Alternatively, I suggest you request their email address (Justify it by telling them you want to draft a quote or proposal)

Or even better, you can tell them you have a document (how to fix the issue)

Put the document on private, so they'll need to request permission to view, that way you get their email address.

You will use this email afterward to follow up on them, just in case they ghost you after getting the price.

Yea yea, it's tricky, but it works.

For projects costing $2k upwards, ask for their email,

“If you can send over an email, i’ll forward a quick proposal you can look at.”

After they send it, then ask if they would be willing to get on a quick call with you.

e.g, after getting their email say “or would you want to hop on a quick call via google meet”

If they decline the Google Meet, then send the proposal via email.

My Real-Life Flow

This is exactly how I do outreach that lands clients:

1. Find the prospect (Instagram, Ads Library, SEO, etc.)
2. Study their funnel, their vibe, their offer
3. Engage with their content subtly (like, reply, comment)
4. Send the first DM (text, voice)
5. When they reply, offer a Loom
6. After Loom, wait 2–3 days, then send a personal video intro as follow-up or to make a pitch
7. Send them your Calendly link to book a call
8. Hop on a call, close the deal

Below are some of my early pitches, Notice my stutters and fear, but it still got me the client.

Video Intro Example:

<https://drive.google.com/file/d/1xuvamifYsrXHmNYKYuDgojwi02iYU08Y/view?usp=sharing>

Also, here is one of my First video intros, it got me a $250 gig in 24 hours:

https://drive.google.com/file/d/1nm-58-73lnbUkIEKt-XAaPRqqpw3_pbP/view?usp=sharing

Start messy. You'll get better.

Follow-Up Strategy (Most People Suck at This)

Here's the truth: your first message won't always land.

Most clients ignore until message #3 or #4. That's normal.

In fact, i have this client io closed after 15 follow-ups over a 30-day period,

I was in his IG dms, and email inbox.

back-to-back,

My mindset: You either say YES, NO, or you BLOCK me,

dude got tired of me and paid.

I follow up aggressively and creatively. I keep it light and fun.

If they viewed it? If they liked it? If they clicked your page?

That's all life. Don't take silence as rejection.

How I Follow Up:

- Humor: "Hey bro, I feel like IG is hiding my messages from you. Conspiracy? 🙄"
- Callbacks: "Remember I mentioned that lead capture tip? Just recorded a new one with updates, want me to send?"
- Pattern break: "Alright man, this is my last follow-up... unless I think of something crazier"

Pro tip: track their timezone.

If you're reaching out to professionals, then 8:00am to 11am

Lunch break is 1pm to 3pm, depending on the city.

Another window is 8pm to 2am their time.

Don't DM someone at 4am their time. By the time they wake, you're buried under 50 other messages.

Track their timezone using World Clock. I track LA, Miami, NYC, Dubai, London.

Warm Them Up Before DMing

Here's something sneaky that works: Before DMing, spend 2 minutes warming them up:

- Like 3 recent posts
- Comment something specific (not "🔥")
- Repost a reel to your story and tag them

It creates familiarity. So when your DM lands, they're already mentally open.

If you send a dm first before warming them up, instagram will hide your comments or tag it as spam.

Live example:

1. I went to this prospects dm and dropped a free sample.
Two days later, i went to his dm and said, “i have sent over the files”
He quickly checked my page to see the files, and lo and behold, it was a free opt-in page copy. (it wasnt even that good looking back at it now) But he viewed it and said nothing, the document included what i can do for him.

Achievement: I was moved to the primary inbox.

I then began interacting with his page and stories to build familiarity,

2. I began following up every few days,

3. Then i got this reply

4. I decided that following him up back-to-back in the dm, will be rude at this point since he already said he was thinking about it, so I waited for a week or two and sent over an email.

How did I get his email? I went to his website and found an email address. I also tried buying something from him and cancelled, and I got a generic message asking me to come and pay. I copied the email address.

Also, notice how he has started reacting to all my DMs without saying anything, a sign he's interested but dragging his feet.

Then I sat down to ask myself a question,

Why is this guy taking time to commit?

What could be the silent objection holding him back?

I compiled a list of possible objections and started analysing,
I decided to pick out the likely biggest barrier, and i was right,

Trust was a problem.

I came up with a solution where I can do his email copywriting and email set up without him havingng to share a password with me.

And guess what, it worked, that was what held him back, that a random African could get access to all his revenue data, i took that out of the way and boom. He responded to my email.

What reply did I get? Let's see.

And when i was done with the job,

Boom

And that was it.

Was it complicated?

Huh ?

Cold DM Scripts (Use These as a Base)

Script 1 — Teaser Ask "Hey [Name], I saw something that could plug a leak in your funnel. 2-minute fix. Want me to show you?"

Script 2 — Compliment + Suggestion "Big fan of your product. Your ad game is solid. Particularly the one you talked about One weird idea popped in my head to boost CTR. Want me to explain?"

Script 3 — Proof-Based Tease "Helped a fitness coach pull in $18k from automated emails. Saw your offer and had an idea. I can send you a quick breakdown now"

Do NOT copy me verbatim. Make them sound like you. Adapt to your tone.

Ai prompting

I did something I think you'll find very helpful: I took the dm scripts that work for me and sent them to ChatGPT. It studied my dm scripots and came up with a framework that anyone can use to generate similar scripts for any industry.

I further developed and tested the scripts for consistency, and now I am about to give them to you for free.

The reason why I am doing this is that most people complained that some of the examples i gave in previous versions of the book only took copywriters into account,

Because of that, I have made a modular prompt, and all you need to do is

Edit and fill in what you do, + The kind of Client you want,
AI will do the rest.

You can download ChatGPT or CLAUDE for free from the Apple App Store or Google Play Store, sign up, and log in.

(To be honest, Claude is better than ChatGPT when it comes to text-based stuff like this. I now use Claude in 2026, the paid version. If you can't afford the paid version, stick to free chat GPT as it has more free usage volume.

Below is the prompt, simply copy and paste it on ChatGPT, edit your role and target audience and that's all.

Paschal's Cold DM Script Prompt

You are a professional cold outreach strategist with 60 years of sales and marketing experience. You deeply understand B2B buyer psychology and outbound marketing.

I want you to generate 30 short, unique, and human-sounding cold DM scripts optimized to get replies.

Inputs:

- Role: [INSERT YOUR ROLE e.g I am a copywriter]
- Target Audience: [INSERT YOUR TARGET AUDIENCE AND EXPLAIN WHAT THEY DO IN GREAT DETAILS e.g Fitness coaches trying to grow their business using instagram content creation and meta ads]

Rules:

1. Each script should be 2-4 sentences max, written like a casual Instagram DM.
2. Use a polite but authoritative tone. Never make the business owner feel dumb.
3. Every script should highlight ONE specific, realistic problem that costs money, time, or growth for the target audience, and show how someone in my role could fix it.
4. Knowledge injection: Base problems on documented case studies, common industry complaints, and revenue-impacting issues in the target audience's field. Do not invent vague problems.

5. First-line preview rule: the first 8-12 words must be notification-optimized. Start with a concrete detail like [AssetSeen], [Channel], [OfferType], or [Company], not a generic greeting.
6. Use tokens for personalization: [FirstName] [Company] [Channel] [AssetSeen] [OfferType]. Only use [FirstName] if it feels natural and tied to a specific detail.
7. Frame scripts using this structure:
 - Specific opener (compliment, observation, or detail)
 - Point out a clear problem that costs revenue/time
 - Hint at a fix I've used before (with a result or example)
 - End with a low-friction curiosity CTA (e.g. Want me to share it?)
8. Do not use em-dashes anywhere in the response.
9. Do not use quotation marks in the scripts.
10. Avoid overused outreach clichés like hope you're well, circle back, leverage, game-changer.
11. Vary tone and phrasing so they read naturally – some more curious, some more direct, some slightly playful.
12. Reply-type balance:
 - 60% curiosity hooks (Want me to share it?)
 - 30% collaboration invites (Want me to draft a sample for you?)
 - 10% light/humor (IG hiding my message again, want me to resend?)
13. Organize the 30 scripts into categories so users can test different angles:
 - Funnel/Website Leaks

- Ads/Traffic Issues
- Email/Follow-up Gaps
- Sales Page/Offer Positioning
- Retention/Upsell Opportunities

14. Number each script clearly 1-30, grouped under its category heading.

Output Format:

- 30 scripts, modular for direct copy-paste into DMs.
- Grouped into the 5 categories above.
- Each script starts with a notification-optimized opener.
- Tokens included where needed.

Now generate the scripts

Tracking & Scaling

If you don't track, you won't grow.

Here is my lead tracker: I'm giving it to you for free. Make a copy.
Copy and paste this on your browser

https://docs.google.com/spreadsheets/d/1NaGLfALf264q9mkaYcg7OvT8Gk_IxdN7gjt9Iv14v6A/edit?usp=sharing

When you send a DM, and they don't respond after 24 hours, go to your lead tracker and mark it as cold. You try again later.

And when they do respond, you can actually make a different lead tracker copy and only fill out the people who respond for easy tracking.

When they respond, e.g., let me see samples, or they like your message, you mark it as "warm", meaning a higher likelihood of better communication.

Hot means they agreed to hop on a call with you (chances of closing are high)

"Yet to reach out" means you have them in your prospect list, but you have yet to reach out or pitch them,

While gathering prospects from tiktok and IG, tag them as "yet to reach out"

You might want to use your PC for this for proper lead entering.

Your goal? 20-50 DMs/day. Track everything. Follow up every 3-5 days.
(Remember to do this gradually as you warm up the account)

Make your pipeline too full to fail.

Bonus Play: Client Ascension

Once someone pays you, don't stop. Upsell into retainers.

Example: I wrote a landing page + 3 emails for a guy. 1 month later, I saw his team was running ads, I wrote 3 new ad samples, sent them as a "follow-up gift." Then pitched myself as their permanent copy guy.

I sold them on why they should have multiple ads running for rapid testing.

They hired me. Monthly retainer. Multi-figure.

If you overdeliver once, trust will be built, and they will want more. It's easy to close,

Ascend them into other services you have.

If you see other things they need that you don't offer, video editing, graphics design, anything at all, find someone that can do it, make a deal with the person, tell the client you know someone.

Take your percentage,

Keep making your money.

That is the essence of Ascension.

Action Steps

- Choose a platform (IG, X, LinkedIn)
- Write 3 cold DM scripts in your voice
- Sign up on Loom.com and get comfortable recording
- Create a lead tracker
- Start sending 20-50 DMs a day
- Follow up with creativity, not desperation
- Prepare your Looms, then your video intros

Heads up: The next chapter discusses Cold email, which is a very complicated process for beginners. I have made this next chapter for people who have already gotten their first clients with cold DMs and are now ready to scale with emails.

I advise you skip this chapter if you don't have a website or have little knowledge of email system building.

It will cost around $100-$200 in software subscriptions to get solid results with this method.

Chapter 6: Cold Email, Build a Scalable Client-Getting Engine (Advanced)

Cold DMs are powerful. But they rely heavily on your time, presence, and energy. You can only send so many a day, right?

Now imagine sending hundreds of messages every single day — without lifting a finger after setup. That's the power of cold email.

If you've been running on pure hustle and DMs, this is the chapter where we graduate you into real automation.

Mind you: This is advanced and will require some monetary investment. You can explore this option to scale after you land paying clients from the other strategies discussed.

Why Cold Email Still Works in 2025 (When Done Right)

Here's what makes cold email deadly (when done well):

-  Personalization at scale — Thanks to Ai, emails can now Feel custom.
-  Deliverability — Your emails land in inbox, not spam
-  Targeting — You message decision-makers, not random browsers
-  Consistency — Once automated, you send 100s per day

Cold Email vs Cold DM (When to Use Each)

Feature	Cold DM	Cold Email
Personal, emotional	✓	✗
Easy to start	✓	✗
Mass scalable	✗	✓
Great for freelancers	✓	✓
Great for agencies/consultants	✗	✓
Visual + vibe-based	✓	✗
Automation-friendly	✗	✓

Use DMs when you want high-touch trust. Use email when you want volume and scale. Use both, and you win.

3. Clay.run or Apollo.io

Now, when you scrape emails, or names, or business names, sometimes phantom buster or other tools will provide incomplete data,

For example, you might want to scrape linkedin leads, and phantom buster will be able to supply only full names, business name and website etc,

You can use enrichment tools to fill in the data.

Clay is one of the best lead generation and enrichment tools out there, and it can even give you the bio description for the target lead.

Ai can use these bios to come up with personalized email scripts

- Clay: enrich names with job titles, websites, LinkedIn, etc.
- Use Clay + GPT-4 to generate custom ice-breakers or opening lines
- Apollo: Great lead database with verified emails

Watch this video below to see how to use clay

4. NeverBounce or ZeroBounce

- After generating leads, this tool cleans your email list before you send
- Prevents bouncing and improves deliverability

Remember, if you are new to this, you might find it challenging at first.

Your goal is not to use all the methods in this material, but to pick one, master it and win.

Cold Email Structure That Converts

Every cold email should feel like a 1:1 conversation. Here's the winning format:

Subject Line (Keep it Casual & Curious)

- "quick idea for your funnel"
- "this might help"
- "noticed your landing page"

First Line (Personalized Hook)

"Saw your IG reel on 3-product dropshipping funnels — brilliant."

This line determines whether they'll read the rest. Make it sharp.

Value Statement (Suggestive Offer)

"Had an idea that could help you collect more leads without changing your funnel. Super simple — might be worth testing."

Don't sell. Just suggest.

CTA (Low Pressure)

"Want me to send over a quick Loom?"

That's it. No pitch. No link. Just open the loop.

Important: If you attach a link to your email, it might harm your deliverability and your email will land in the spam folder.

Personalization: The Secret Sauce (with AI)

Inside Clay, you can link GPT-4 and write:

"Write a compliment based on this LinkedIn post: [insert URL]"

Or:

"Write a cold email opener based on (leads bio), dont sound like Ai:

This allows you to:

- Mention their podcast
- Reference a LinkedIn article
- Compliment their headline or About section

Do this, and you'll stand out from 99% of cold emailers.

How to Build & Run a Campaign (Step-by-Step)

1. Use PhantomBuster to extract leads (from LinkedIn, X, TikTok, etc.)
2. Enrich the leads in Clay (add job title, site, social links)
3. Write cold email templates using suggestive value framework
4. Upload to Instantly (via CSV or Clay sync)
5. Enable warmup on your sending inboxes (1-2 weeks minimum)
6. Send 25-50 emails/day/inbox to start
7. Add 2-3 follow-up emails spaced 2-4 days apart
8. Monitor open rates, replies, and bounces

Follow-Up Logic (Lead Scoring)

Here's how I track what to do with different lead responses:

- Opened Only: Send a follow-up with another tip or suggestion
- Clicked a Link: DM them on Instagram if possible
- Replied: Move to warm or hot status, continue convo
- No Activity: Remove them after 3-5 emails

All of this will make sense after you go through the tutorial videos i linked above.

Cold Email Templates That Work (Use These as a Base)

Template 1: Compliment + Suggestion

Subject: quick idea

Hey [Name],

Just checked out [something personal about them]. Really sharp. Had a small suggestion that might help you collect leads more efficiently — want me to send over a quick breakdown?

Cheers, [Your Name]

Template 2: Social Proof Hook

Subject: quick q on [niche]

Hey [Name],

I recently helped a course creator 4x her webinar signups using a two-step quiz opt-in. Based on what you're doing, I think it might work for you too. Want me to send over what I did?

Best, [Your Name]

Action Steps

- Choose your niche (ecom coaches, course creators, SaaS)
- Use PhantomBuster or Apollo to build your first lead list (50–100 leads)
- Set up your Instantly.ai account and domain inboxes
- Warm up inboxes for 7–10 days
- Use Clay to write personalized openers with ChatGPT/GPT-4
- Write 3 cold email variations + 2–3 follow-ups
- Start sending 50–100 emails/day
- Track everything in a CRM or Google Sheet

Chapter 7: Beyond Hustle

(Retainers, Referrals, Payments & The Hidden Job Market)

We've talked about cold DMs, cold emails, pitching strangers, and closing your first few clients. But let me be honest with you — client acquisition isn't just about getting gigs. It's about staying paid, building consistency, and tapping into opportunities most people will never see.

This chapter brings everything together. I'm going to show you how to play the long game — from getting on retainers, to getting paid stress-free, to being the guy (or girl) that gets a call before jobs are even posted.

Let's go.

Turning One Gig Into Monthly Retainers (Client Ascension 101)

I've said this before: Getting paid once is sweet. But you know what's sweeter? Getting paid every single month, without begging, chasing, or sending awkward reminders.

Why Retainers Are The Goal:

- You stop the constant hunt for new clients

- Clients treat you like a partner, not a task-boy
- Your income becomes steady and predictable
- You can breathe. Finally.

Here's How I Usually Do It:

1. I work on a one-off gig.
2. I kill it (Get the result). Deliver on time, bring fresh ideas.
3. I look around their business and ask: "What else are they clearly not doing well?"
4. Then I pitch that new need as a monthly offer.

Example:

"Hey, I noticed you're running ads but I'm not seeing a consistent testing rhythm. I can write 4-5 new angles per week, test them live, and track results. $1k/month. Want to try for 2 weeks?"

You can offer them a free test run and if they see value in it, you're good to go.

What Can You Offer Monthly?

Whatever you do, package it into something repeatable:

- Copywriters: Weekly emails, new ad angles, sales page tests
- Designers: Monthly creatives, A/B versions
- Video Editors: Weekly Reels, TikToks, podcast snippets
- Media Buyers: Ad mgmt, creative testing
- VAs: Calendar/inbox cleanup, reporting, community mgmt

Always pitch around time saved or money made. That's what people pay for.

My Go-To Retainer Pitch Formulas:

1. "More of What Worked"
"That funnel did $12k. Want me to build you a new one every month?"
2. "Stay Consistent"
"I can keep your IG active with 30 reels edits + carousels monthly. $500/mo."
3. "Creative Optimization Loop"
"Let's test new ad angles weekly. I'll write, track, optimize. Flat $1,500/month."

Start simple. Offer a test month if they're unsure.

The Hidden Job Market (Play The Game They Don't Teach You)

You know how everyone's rushing to apply to jobs on LinkedIn, Upwork, and job boards? Yeah... you're entering a war zone. Hundreds, sometimes thousands of applicants.

But there's another world. The unofficial world. Where jobs don't get posted, they get passed around.

One good DM. One recommendation. One "yo I know a guy" — that's how most people get hired at the top.

This is what I call the hidden job market. Where companies trust the recommendation of their existing staff's circle, instead of hopping through applications.

Here's How I Tap Into It:

1. Be Present in Their Circle

Check who your prospect tags in stories or comments. Engage those people — VAs, partners, designers. They're the gatekeepers.

DM something casual:

"Hey, I saw you're working with [prospect]. If they ever need extra help with [X], happy to jump in."

No pitching. Just planting seeds.

You can follow those people, (other freelancers they work with) engage with them, genuinely and casually, try to become friends (Valueable one), Infact, one thing i have even done is to reach out and tell them things like " Hey bro, i noticed you work with (X) as an editor, I like your style, The last editor our agency hired was a total disaster, but we have someone now, if any spot opens up, would it be ok to pitch your services to my client ? "

Now, this makes them see you as valuable, someone with a client, it might even trigger reciprocal intentions in them, after a few weeks you can ask to to pitch you in if any of his clients need your services,

Do not over do this, be smart about it, and don't copy me verbatim,

This has worked for me, like crazy, don't mess it up (please).

2. Build Real Relationships

Stop treating every lead like a transaction. Sometimes they won't hire you. Cool. Doesn't mean the connection should die.

Check on them. React to their stories. DM casually. Give value when it's relevant. That's how you stay top-of-mind when the need comes up.

3. Ask For Soft Referrals

After a convo (even if they say no):

“No worries at all. If you know anyone in your space who might need help with [your service], feel free to put in a word. I'd appreciate it.”

Many of my best clients came from that one line.

4. Join Hidden Hubs

Places like:

- Paid mastermind groups
- Discord servers
- Skool communities
- Private FB groups,

Be helpful. Drop tips. Answer questions. When someone asks “Who knows a copywriter?” your name gets dropped. That's how it works.

5. Build a Warm Pipeline

Keep a Notion or Google Sheet where you:

- Track people who replied but ghosted
- Save old clients
- Add names of folks who engaged but didn't buy

Every 2 weeks, follow up with something useful. Or just check in.
Make proper use of the lead tracker i shared with you.

Payments — Getting Paid Globally Without Stress

I know the pain of begging clients to pay, or trying to figure out how to collect USD in Nigeria. Been there.

So let me plug you in on what actually works.

Now, there are two major ways a client can pay you,

1. ACH transfers - These are like a regular bank transfer, but international. It takes roughly 3 days to 1 week to arrive.
2. Card payment - Instant.

Below are the payment platforms I use, and the payment methods they support

- Domiciliary account - This is an international bank account you can open with any nigerian bank, simply walk up to the nearest UBA, Access, Etc and they will have it set up for you, however, you will need a minimum opening deposit, which varies by bank, a completed account opening form, a valid ID (Passport, NIN, Drivers License or Voters Card if you are in nigeria), a utility bill, and potentially two reference forms from existing account holders
A lot of headaches, which is why i have simpler methods for you below.
- Raenest (previously called geegpay) — Best I've used. Great rates. Free. Invoices look pro. Simply download the app from the Google play/Apple App Store..

One issue you might face before you can get a USD or Euro Account is them asking for proof that you are a freelancer, or are actively working for a client (something to prove that you don't intend to use it for fraud).

Someone said he simply drafted a random project invoice using ChatGPT, put signatures of imaginary clients on it, and got accepted.

I mean, while I don't encourage it, do what works for you.

- Cleva — Also decent. Same process with Geegpay

They Only support ACH payments (Bank transfer), and you might encounter issues if the client is sending Dollars from a non-U.S. territory, such as Dubai, Australia, in that case, you will need another option.

Selphany (<https://selfany.com/>) - This platform started as a place to sell digital products, but now allows you to send invoices and even accept card payments from clients.

You can give it a shot.

 Avoid Payoneer.com if you're just starting out. The lengthy verification process for africans can trap your money. Rates are trash too (From personal experience)

Monthly Retainers (Recurring Payments)

If you want clients to be debited automatically every month, you need Stripe.

Stripe lets clients input their card once. That's it. You get paid monthly like Netflix.

How to get Stripe in Nigeria:

- You need an international passport
- You'll need a US/UK business entity or someone to help set it up

I personally use Ohakwe → +2348166738666
He charges ₦90k..

There's another guy who charges a similar rate: Kenneth Nwakanma +234 9090285843 , WhatsApp.

When you message any of them, go straight to the point "Hi, I am interested in getting a Stripe account, my name is... and Paschal Mbaka gave me your contact. How much ?"

Real Talk Before You Bounce

You made it to the end of this book. That already puts you in the top 10% of people who say they want clients but don't follow through.

Only 1-2 out of a 100 people who read this book eventually makes it to this point, and to that, i say, Congratulations.

But this is not the end. Reading isn't what makes you money.

Executing does.

I don't want you to just admire the process. I want you to copy it. Remix it. Run it.
